The Norway Board of Trade Meeting.

The meeting of the Norway Board of Trade, which was held Friday evening, had a very large attendance, because of the interest of the shoe shop matter, which came up at this meeting.

Among the speakers at this meeting were Hon. A. J. Stearns, Frank Kimball, F. H. Noyes, Rev. F. J. Bruce, H. L. Horne, J. P. Richardson and Percy Nevers.

A communication from Mr. Spinney was read at the meeting, which definitely settles matters, that B. F. Spinney & Co. will cease to make shoes in the Norway factory after the stock now on hand is worked up, which it is expected will take about three months.

On account of the death of L. P. Bartlett of Lynn, then a member of the firm, with the desire of his widow to realize on his interests in the concern, the firm will go into liquidation.

Frank Spinney, son of B. F. Spinney is interested in the firm of Faunce & Spinney. It was hoped that the firm of Faunce & Spinney might transfer their business to the Norway factory. The matter has been under consideration and carefully gone over, but they have decided to remain in Lynn.

Since the establishment of the shoe factory there, there have been employed between 300 and 500 hands and has been the leading industry.

The plant here, so large and well equipped, will not be allowed to remain idle for any length of time.

A Pink and White Shower.

An unusual and interesting shower occurred on lower Main street, Tuesday evening. This was not a shower of rain, but a pink and white bridal shower in honor of Josephine B. Stearns, whose marriage to Carl E. Stone is to take place soon. Maud Ellen Pike and Florence A. Riddout were the hostesses.

As each guest arrived she was required to make some useful article from the material in a package presented to her. When Miss Stearns, who had been invited to a long walk, reached Miss Pike's home she, to her great surprise, found a merry group of young ladies very busy in her behalf.

Pink caps were fashioned from tissue paper and donned by guests and hostesses. Then the hunt for supper began. Three groups followed three trails of pink and white and blue until they were led to an open air dining room on the lawn of A. L. F. Pike. This was lighted by Japanese lanterns. All of the table appointments as well as the menu, carried out the color scheme of pink and white. The centerpiece was an arch wound with pink roses. Under this stood a tiny bride and groom. Tiny dolls dressed in pink were ringing the wedding bell which was suspended from the arch.

After a half hour of music the sewing was continued at Miss Riddout's home. A story contest ended with the surprise of the evening, as the winner of this contest, Miss Stearns, was presented with a pink and white barrel of "rain water," whose pink and white "rain drops" were found to contain a variety of dainty gifts.

The invited guests were Josephine B. Stearns, Frances Bartlett of East Stoneham, Elizabeth E. Foss, Mildred Holmes, Genevieve Barker, Edith Riddout, Anna Bell Bennett, Grace Thibodeau, Marion Smith, Annie Gibson, Beatrice Stone, Mrs. Elmer Morrill, Mrs. Roy Pratt and Jennie Mann.

VOLUME XLIV.

A Word About the Circus.

Bright and early Sunday morning, the circus which had been exhibiting in Rumford on Saturday, came into town and located at the rear of the Catholic church off Charles street. During the day they were visited as usual by a large crowd which was curious to see the workings of the circus during their leisure hours.

Monday morning the street parade came up Beal street and down Main street at ten o'clock and was watched by a good sized crowd along its way. The parade went from here to South Paris.

The parade was of unusual length and was made up of horse-back riders, clowns, caged wild animals, including lions, hyenas, wolves, bears and llamas, there were also ponies, camels and elephants. There were the usual professional and amateur bands and the celebrated musical instrument always associated with the circus, the callopie, which pealed forth its melodious tones to many of the popular airs.

The performances, both afternoon and evening, were attended by a large crowd. The performance opened with a parade of the animals and participants of the circus.

The horse-back riding and feats were done in good style and the acrobats were on their job and did some fine trapeze and tight rope features.

One of the most interesting parts was the work of the fifteen trained ponies, which at the command of the trainer would obey with wonderful intelligence. They were expert soldiers, marching at his command in twos, fours, sixes and twelves, and at the command marched in and out around the four ponies stationed on raised platforms. Another interesting feature was the revolving platform.

The pony was placed upon the platform and easily kept up with the platform and reminded one of a squirrel in a rolling cage, he could trot so fast, but the men who tried it merely rolled off.

The trained elephants were right on their job and while being an unusually looking animal, could dance and roll on a barrel, beat time for the music and obeyed commands in a wonderful manner.

The clowns were up to their usual stunts of dancing, playing ball and imitating the trapeze performers. "Mandy" was there this year and did escort duty to many a young man as he entered, while it did not jar her in the least, once in a while, if her "escort" gave her "the clip" in the crowd.

The show was a one ring circus but there was enough excitement to keep you busy most of the time.

Wright-Libby.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Libby in Auburn Sunday afternoon, July 20th, at four o'clock, occurred the wedding of their daughter, Olivia L. Libby and Ruel S. Wright, in the presence of the immediate relatives and a few invited guests.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. M. Preble, who used the double ring service. The parlor was prettily decorated with flowers, potted plants and ferns. The bride was handsomely gowned in a dress of white over white messaline and carried a large bouquet of carnations. She also wore a chain, which was a gift of her father and a pair of pearls, which was made from nuggets of gold from Alaska. The groom wore the conventional black.

The maid of honor, Hattie Wright of Hallowell, a sister of the bridegroom, was becomingly gowned in pearl gray silk with trimmings of hand embroidery, her flowers being sweet peas, Arthur French of Auburn was best man. Heartly congratulations were extended to the happy couple.

The traditional ring was secured by Arthur French and the button by Miss Wright.

The wedding march was played by Mr. Manson of Augusta, who played Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright were the recipients of many useful and beautiful gifts, including mission wood, cut glass, silver and hand painted china.

After the wedding, ices, cakes, fancy cookies, crackers and fruit punch were served.

At present she is employed in the office of the Cushman-Hollis shoe factory in Auburn, and Mr. Wright is employed as a cutter in the Ashe, Noyes, Morrill & Co.'s factory. Maud Thomason delightfully entertained the members of the Thimble Club and a few invited guests at her summer home on Rook Island, Lake Pennessewassee, Wednesday afternoon, July 16th. The party was so to be entertained at the lawn, but on account of the inclemency of the weather the affair was held in the sun parlor. The afternoon was pleasantly passed with sewing, followed by dancing. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. The club members present were Mrs. Annie Favour, Mrs. Nellie Curtis, Mrs. Eva Kimball, Mrs. George Andrews, Nellie Andrews, Mrs. Grace Cushman, Mrs. Jennie Foster, Mrs. Dora Brett, Mrs. Lizzie Sampson, Abbie Curtis and Mrs. Lilla Locke. Will Interest Readers of the Advertiser

Those having the misfortune to suffer from backache, urinary disorders, gravel, dropsical swellings, rheumatic pains, or other kidney and bladder disorders, will read with gratification this encouraging statement by a Norway man.

S. C. Foster, barber, Main St., Norway, Me., says: "The public statement I gave about Doan's Kidney Pills several years ago, was right in every particular. I used this remedy, getting it from Stone's Drug Store, and I am glad to say that it is the best one on the market. Sometimes when I catch cold, it settles on my kidneys, but a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills give me relief."

The above statement must carry conviction to the mind of every reader. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Foster had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Suffered Twenty-One Years—

Finally Found Relief

Having suffered for twenty-one years with a pain in my side, I finally have found relief in Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. The physicians called it "Moth-eaten Pain" and injections of morphine were my only relief for short periods of time. I became so sick that I had to undergo a surgical operation in New Orleans, which benefited me for two years. When the same pain came back one day I was so sick that I gave up hopes of living. A friend advised me to try your Swamp-Root and I at once commenced using it. The first bottle did me so much good that I purchased two more bottles. I am now on my second bottle and am feeling like a new woman. I passed a gravel stone as large as a big red bean and several small ones. I have not had the least feeling of pain since taking your Swamp-Root and I feel it my duty to recommend this great medicine to all suffering humanity. Gratefully yours, MRS. JOSEPH CONSTANCE, Avoyelles Par, Marksville, La.

Personally appeared before me, this 15th day of July, 1911, Mrs. Joseph Constance, who subscribed the above statement, and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

WM. MORROW, Notary Public.

At Night.

Heavy, heavy is my heart, in the silent summer night.

Then I keep a lonely vigil, wage with grief a silent fight.

Backed by the moonlight, the shadows glow, the shadows waver to and fro.

The faint shadows come and go, and darkest in the room.

Slowly, slowly, drag the hours till the moon brings never come.

Bringing sunlight, song of birds, and of bees the cheery hum?

Hour on hour—my eyes grow slow—

Who and summer nights are brief?

Bitter ache of unshed grief,

Heart agony beyond relief.

Each night are mine to know.

When early morning sends gray shafts to pierce the red of black,

And rosy messengers of dawn swiftly follow in their track,

Then I give up, brief respite—

Success of sorrow for a day,

Nature brings a little relief,

And now I rest what time I may,

Until another night.

Truth and Rotten Eggs.

A farmer had some old state eggs and didn't want to lose them.

He knew if he left them in the house, he was sure to have them.

He took them to the grocery store and traded them for butter.

The grocer thought the eggs were poor and threw them in the gutter.

Next day the man came lugging back his eggs and the grocer thought he was an idiot for a "sticker."

He said the butter was spoiled and it smelled like rotten eggs.

He said he thought the stuff was made of rotten eggs and was over.

The grocer said: "The eggs were bad, I gave you equal measure."

And the man said to me:

"I gave the same with pleasure."

Moral.

Fraud and deceit played in vain No truth when they say there.

"Truth crushed to earth will rise again," But rotten eggs will stay.

Sticking to Farm.

The boys and girls lucky enough to be born on farms are learning to stay there.

Why should anybody want to leave a farm? What is there better than farm life at its best? The farmer and his wife these days may have every advantage enjoyed by their city cousins, and may succeed in making all the advantages of life in a town. Add that farm dwellers have a lot of comforts and pleasures unobtainable in a city and you begin to see why it's the height of folly for the young folks on the farm to think they can better themselves elsewhere.

They've already begun to learn their little lesson. The sons of the farmers are themselves taking over the farms. The movement back to the land has been growing for fifteen years.

The farm is a much more valuable place of property than formerly. Work on the farm is much easier. The invention of many new farm machines has enormously diminished the actual labor of the agriculturist. Farming by hand was an exhausting and monotonous occupation. Farming with modern scientific tools and methods is not only profitable but a pleasure.

A farm is a fine place for developing physical, mental and moral health. You get up and go to bed early, and you stay outdoors and eat wholesome, simple food. Then a successful farmer is bound to feel that he is somebody. He raises corn and oats and beans and potatoes and pigs and poultry and cattle, and he can't help taking an interest in them and being proud of them and of himself. His close contact with the plain, homely, genuine things of life has an effect on character. He's fond of his home and wife and children, and he doesn't want to leave them.

There's no place equal to a farm for bringing up children. From the start they have the great natural advantages of pure air, pure water and plenty of room to play.

Try Camping Out at Home.

Here is a splendid, restful and easy idea that the overworked housewife who is obliged to spend the summer at home may carry out.

It is a simple operation. Camp out in your own house. The only reason it seems difficult to keep the house up through the summer is because most homemakers live up to their cold weather standards. As little entertaining of a formal character goes on in the summer it is really unnecessary to keep the house in dress up costume.

Suppose you try this camping out plan during the warm weather, taking down all the curtains and draperies, also taking up the carpets and spreading rugs and curtains on the floor. Let the boys let them be of swiss or some kind of net, preferably fishnet. Those of the latter material are more durable, although less dainty, than the swiss hanging.

Put linen covers on the chairs, unless they are of wood or wicker, or, better still, put the heavier chairs out of commission entirely and replace them with wicker or wooden ones.

If you have the cool appearance of the home if growing or out flowers are placed about the rooms where they will away in the lightest breeze and suggest coolness even when the mercury is highest.

Leave all the windows closed until toward evening—that is, in rooms where the light is not essential—and you will be surprised to notice how inviting and seemingly cool the town house may become.

The meals in summer, too, can be on the picnic order. On very warm days a luncheon eaten picnic fashion will be more appetizing and at the same time less difficult to prepare than one served in the regular way. No table need be set, and paper napkins and plates can be used. Consequently there will be only silver and cups to be washed.

The picnic fare—sandwiches, iced tea stuffed eggs, perhaps a salad and fruit might be spread on a small table on the porch or in the darkened and cooling dining room.

Forest Fires.

Rules of Law Designed to Prevent Destruction of Timberland.

The following abstracts from the Revised Statutes of the state regarding the building of fires on forest land are now being posted by Chief Engineer Charles E. Hovey, of the Forestry Division.

This matter is one of the greatest importance and the Advertiser reproduces the abstracts for the benefit of any who may be ignorant of the law. The notices are sent out by Elaine S. Viles, forest commissioner.

The provisions of the statutes are as follows:

Chapter 7, Sec. 55. Whoever by himself, or by his servant, agent or guide or as the servant, agent or guide of any other person, shall build a fire, or kindle or other fire, or use an abandoned camp, cooking or other fire in or adjacent to any woods in this state, shall, before leaving such fire, totally extinguish the same and upon failure to do so such person shall be punished by a fine of $50.

* * * One-half of any fine imposed and collected under this section shall be paid to the complainant.

Chapter 7, Sec. 56. Camp fires must be totally extinguished before breaking camp, under penalty of a fine of $50, or one month's imprisonment or $100 fine, or both, as provided by law.

Chapter 28, Sec. 15. Whoever kindles a fire on land not his own without consent of the owner forfeits $10; if such fire spreads and damages the property of others, he forfeits not less than $10 nor more than $500; and, in either case, he shall stand committed until fine and costs are paid, or he shall be imprisoned more than three years.

Chapter 28, Sec. 16. Whoever with intent to injure another, causes a fire to be kindled on his or another's land, whereby the property of any other person is injured or destroyed, shall be fined not less than $20 nor more than $1,000, or imprisoned not less than three months, nor more than three years.

Chapter 28, Sec. 17. Whoever for a lawful purpose kindles a fire on his own land and does so at a suitable time and in a careful and prudent manner and is liable in an action on the case, to any person injured by his failure to comply with this provision.

Chapter 28, Sec. 18. Persons engaged in driving lumber may kindle fires when necessary, but shall use the utmost caution to prevent them from spreading and doing damage, and if they fail to do so, they are subject to all the foregoing liabilities and penalties, as if said privilege had not been allowed.

In addition to the above stated fines and penalties all persons are liable in civil suits for all

A Word About Roads.

The Maine Automobile Association has sent a letter to the selectmen and road commissioners of every town in Maine as follows:

Dear Sir: Among members of our Association in different parts of the State, as well as the public in general, including the tourist, there seems to be a growing feeling that a great many of our towns are neglecting their roads, either in view of the promised assistance of the State in rebuilding some of its roads, or through lack of ordinary care. We feel, as an Association, that our interests are identical with those of all residents of the state and that we would not be doing justice to ourselves and the men who are interested in building and improving our highways, unless we call attention to this matter.

We think you will agree with us that it is the little things which we do which smooth the rough roads of life and increase our efficiency, whether as an individual, a company or a town, therefore it seems to us if the superintendent of roads should put on a single horse dump cart, and a couple of men, with necessary tools, for a few days each month, to remove the loose stones, fill up the small mud holes turn out the water which made ruts on our roads and clean out now and then a culvert, it would not only benefit every individual who rides over the road, but would save hundreds of dollars to the town. By doing this a great deal of loss of time and money would be eliminated, as well as unnecessary destruction to the carriages or whatever other vehicle may be used.

There has also been a constant complaint that those who are constructing the highways, both the state and towns, are not properly SIGNING the road and directing the public which way to go when a portion of the road is under construction. We feel that the public will be very charitable if a little care is used by directing by signs or by fixing some temporary road so they can get by the piece of road which is under construction, and they trust that every man whether he is a town agent or contractor in connection with the rebuilding and improving the roads in the state will use as much care as possible in order to accommodate the public.

The Kitchen Towel.

The modern housekeeper has been called foolishly fastidious, but no one can be too particular about the condition of the kitchen towel. Think of the important parts hands play in the preparation of food! Raw materials must be constantly handled; berries, peaches, tomatoes, bread, cake, cold meats come in intimate relation with the cook before they enter the stomach.

Cleanliness is essential. There are scarcely too much hand washing unless disease germs are to be contracted and later passed on to uncooked foods. Yet what avails washed hands if they are wiped on a soiled towel, even an individual soiled towel?

Yet how rarely is the individual towel used in a kitchen. Any one may use it, and it is often gruesome to think how many do use it.

Bad cooking may ruin digestion, but the worst menace comes from those who prepare foods. Germs of various diseases have been spread by those not conscious of being sick. Hence the extra importance of the clean kitchen towel for hands that must touch our raw food and dishes.

Kitchen convenience is a hinged washstand, with the nail brushes and antiseptic soaps, and above it a rack of individual towels. Here a cook may easily keep her hands healthfully clean.

If individual towels are not used, insist on a clean roller towel eaching, often if several persons are working in the kitchen. Best of all are the rolling towels of Japanese paper, which may be thrown away after one using. These cost little and are much more sanitary and less disagreeable than the too common family towel of the roller variety.

In every home there should be a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, ready to apply in every case of burns, cuts, wounds or scalds. J. H. Polanco, Delvalle, Tex., R. Your Own Life a Quarry.

It was Goethe who said: "Life is a quarry." He does not mean the life outside of yourself. He means your own life, that separate part of God's universe over which he sets you as supreme master. Goethe says that this life, your own life, his life, everybody's life, is a quarry. A quarry is a place where stone is gotten. The value of a quarry is always in the quality of its stone. Now life, if it is a quarry, is simply a place containing something that may be valued, unformed but with skill may be wrought into what is valuable. The stone from the quarry is chiseled into form. A greater value comes from the chiselling of this stone. Michael Angelo's "Moses" is witness of what a great artist may do with a chisel upon a block of marble. Really, then, if your own life is a quarry, you yourself must be the artist, and out of the material of the life you are going to make what is beautiful and wonderful to the world. Let me complete the entire quotation: "Life is a quarry out of which we are to mould and chisel and complete a character."—John T. McFarland.

How the Excitement Increased.

A man who was too stingy to take the newspaper in his home town always went over to borrow his neighbor's paper. One evening he sent his son over to borrow the paper and while the son was on the way they ran into a large stand of bees and in a few minutes his face looked like a watermelon. Hearing the agonized cries of the son, the father ran to his assistance, and, in doing so, ran into a barbed wire fence, butting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and running a $4 pair of trousers.

The old cow took advantage of the hole in the fence, got into the cornfield and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the stingy man's wife ran out of the house, upsetting a four gallon churn full of cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the whole flock. She slipped on the cream and fell down stairs, breaking her leg and a $10 set of false teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the spilled cream into the parlor and ruined a $40 parlor carpet. During the excitement the daughter eloped with the hired man, taking the family savings bank with them.

The moral is that every man should be a subscriber to his home newspaper. The Norway Advertiser.

FRYEBURG.

Meeting of Literary Club.

The annual meeting of the Sterling Literary Club, after an intermission of several weeks due to illness and death in the families of its members, met at the home of the president, Mrs. C. H. Andrews, June 25th.

By a unanimous vote the board of officers of the previous year was re-elected for the ensuing year. Mrs. Abbie Andrews being president and librarian and Mrs. Edith McKeen, secretary and treasurer.

Business completed, a brief time remained for the study of history, conditions and customs of the Latin Americans, our neighbors of the Southern republics. A vote to discontinue the meetings of the club during the months of July and August was taken and the adjournment of the club until September followed.

Ellis McKeen is at his parental home to spend a part of his vacation.

Thomas Dewing of New York is at his summer home in South Chatham.

Mrs. Howard Jones of Bridgton has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Towle, and other relatives and friends in town.

Mrs. J. T. Boatwell has returned from a week's visit to Whitefield where she has relatives and was the guest of her sister, Mrs. George Gordon.

George H. Hill has resigned his position as mail carrier between South Chatham and Fryeburg and it is not definitely known as yet who is to succeed him.

Mr. Emerson's motor car is proving a great addition to the mail service. Much merchandise is carried daily to Fryeburg station besides passengers to and from the village.

A large amount of timber is expected to be cut in South Chatham, variously estimated at from one to two million M. A portable mill is being set up and operators are arriving for beginning work.

Rev. D. C. Manchester of Wollaston, Mass., many years rector of St. John's Episcopal church of Lowell, Mass., conducted the funeral of the late Osborne Anderson, a life long resident of South Chatham, but well known in Fryeburg and vicinity. His remarks were of an excellent character.

Mary Leonard and Rose McNeill of Boston have returned to their homes, after a pleasant vacation of two or three weeks as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Meserve. Miss Leonard has spent many summers in Fryeburg and has made many friends among the young people of the west side.

Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson are at Mr. Anderson's parental home for the summer, and will assist Mrs. Zilpha Anderson in the care of the estate of the late Osborne Anderson, whose long illness occasioned a physical strain upon his faithful wife and nurse, unaided except by occasional assistance of others of the family and considerate neighbors.

Kate Abbott was in Portland, Monday.

All roads lead to blueberry pastures these days.

Elmer Harnden has bought the Jim Ela house, so called.

Susan Charles, an old resident, is visiting Mrs. Barrows.

W. R. Tarbox and wife were in South Paris and Norway, recently.

Mina Hazel Prince has been visiting her sister, Blanche Fox, for a few days.

Ruth Glines is through work in the Post Office and Clara Page has accepted the position.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell (nee Charlotte Pike) are visiting Mrs. Lowell's mother and sisters, Mrs. Lillian Pike.

C. T. Ladd was in Saco, recently, to attend the funeral of his aunt, who died in the old ladies' home there.

Mrs. Hobbs, mother of James Hobbs, who has been ill for a long time, died at the Hobbs house early Sunday morning.

Mrs. A. A. Perry was operated on again last week, for internal trouble, in a Hospital in Boston, but is reported as doing nicely.

"Sprite" the handsome bay horse owned by Wallace R. Tarbox was so lame, caused by a strain, he had to be laid away last week. He was a handsome horse and a great pet.

Fryeburg had an exciting time Saturday, when a Fakir named Wilson, who has been "stopping in the Haley neighborhood for some months, became intoxicated and was driving a horse through the streets in a reckless manner. He was arrested, spent the night in the cage, and was allowed his freedom the next morning with the understanding, he was to appear Monday morning for trial. He had a valise containing several quarts and pints of liquor. It was surmised he had been selling for some time. As might be expected, he skipped and the query is, who will pay the costs?

The Virtues of The Pineapple.

Fresh pineapple juice has great value as a digestive. A small amount will digest a considerable piece of steak or any other animal tissue. Boiling, however, seems to kill the enzymes in the pineapple so that after canning it loses its digestive power.

The peculiar property of pineapple juice makes it of value in many ways. For instance, in diphtheria it is used as a gargle, and the diphtheria membrane disappears like magic at its touch. It seems to have the power of picking out all non-living animal tissues and rapidly digesting them leaving all the living tissues. In cases of quinsy, pineapple juice digests all poisonous tissue, often giving quick relief.

Sometimes it is not best to incise or lance a boil, and the yellow cap may often remain upon the boil without opening, holding back the pus. The application of pineapple juice invariably establishes free drainage within a short time.

For administration in the stomach, pineapple acts, adds the Family Doctor, as a preventive rather than a cure. It can not quickly correct a acute attack of indigestion, though it may prevent an attack.

Morning After.

"Dearest," says the bonny bride. "I just can't get a bit of heat from that gas range, and the kitchen is full of the most disagreeable smell."

The gentle bridegroom goes to the kitchen, shuts off the gas, opens the doors and windows and after a while explains slowly and patiently.

"You know, darling, the gas has to be lighted before it will produce heat."

Pinkham's medicine. You may rest assured that I do all I can to recommend your wonderful medicine to my friends."—Mrs. FRED STONE, Route No. 3, Malone, N. Y.

Norway Imprints.

Mrs. Izah Tenney Allen of Mattapoisett, Mass., has favored me with a few more interesting samples of old Norway newspapers. The most curious of these are the first issue of the "The Politician," Vol. 1, No. 18, issued at Norway, Tuesday, Oct. 23d, 1832, by W. E. Goodnow. It is a fine column, four page sheet, devoted to the virtues of Henry Clay and bitterly assailing Andrew Jackson. The editor and printer had made an arrangement to secure a new printing press of larger size, so that he can print a sheet of twenty-four columns. He also reminds the subscribers that they are in arrears and that he needs money. I fail to find any local news of any character in it. Mrs. H. W. Goodnow, the printer's wife, announces fall and winter fashions of dresses, bonnets and caps. Rogers & Cutler appear to be a local dry goods concern. I never hear of the "The Politician" stock to Benjamin Tucker, Jr. are Mitchell advertises books, wrapping and letter paper for sale. Elliott Smith requests the members of the Norway Lyceum to meet in the schoolhouse on Wednesday evening next. Zebulon Perry advertises cloth dressing at the Old Stand at "Steep Falls." The other advertisers appear to be all from Portland. William A. Evans has the only card as an Attorney at Law. His office is described as being over the shop of R. F. Beal, nearly opposite the Norway Hotel.

Mrs. Allen also sends a copy of the Oxford Observer of September 29, 1835. This was printed at Paris by Asa Barton, father of the late Mrs. Elliott Smith, who subsequently married the printer to Norway.

It was established by Hannibal Hamlin, and Horatio King, one of whom became vice-president of the United States and the other was Buchanan's postmaster general for a short time. Mr. King married a sister of the late S. H. Colesworthy of Portland, and a son, General Horatio C. King, still lives in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Besides the political editorials there is little or no local news, beyond the dedication of the Universalist meeting house in East Livermore. There is a page of other news, however, from Europe and South America, and another page of miscellaneous letters from Europe and other points of interest.

Another copy of The Observer, Dec. 1, 1835, is dated from Norway. It is printed by William K. Goodnow and William Phelps. The publishers want a few cords of dry wood and a few bushels of wheat, rye, corn and potatoes in payment for The Observer. Parker Cleveland advertises the opening of the medical school of Maine at Brunswick, Me., and Asa Barton announces the publication of Mr. Wood's sermon delivered at the Universalist meeting house in Norway. Mr. Barton also announces the sale of a novel, "The Wep of Wist on Wish," etc. There is no local advertising.

Coming down to the later period is a very well-preserved copy of the The Norway Advertiser, an "independent paper, devoted to Literature, Morality, News, and Agriculture," and a good enough platform for any editor. This is No. 32 of Vol. 6, issued at Norway village, Me., Friday, Nov. 16, 1849. It is a six column newspaper, very at- tractively made up and well printed. The late Thomas Wirt was publisher of the paper. There is little or no local news. Here is one interesting paragraph, however:—

"Mr. Ames, of this village, now in his 61st year, and amply in good health, ate an apple the other day which grew from a tree, the seed of which he planted since he was eighty years old—the like of which is seldom or never done."

Mr. Ames was one of the first settlers in Norway and the father of Mrs. Clara Hayden, who still lives and who hope will emulate her father in longevity.

Another item describes the Exhibition of the students connected with the Oxford Normal Institute at South Paris:—"The boys by the Glee Club and declamations by the young gentlemen were highly respectable."

Ichabod Bartlett offers one hundred acres of land for sale, situated near Steep Falls and within one mile of the A. & S. I. Railroad, the latter being the Grand Trunk of today. C. P. Kimball has the carriage manufacturer. Brown & Company ran a foundry and stove works at Steep Falls. A. T. Fitz, father of the late John Fitz, and grandfather of Mrs. George W. Horne, was the painter, glazier and paper hanger; Peter B. Frost was the mechanic; Eli Crocker the hair dresser and William Wirt Virgin the Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Dennis True & Kendall run a general store. There is a little article, "Wealth and Knowledge Contrasted," signed O. N. B.

The article contrasts the wealth of Bradbury. He held that knowledge was superior to wealth. Mrs. M. J. Shattuck was the village milliner and Miss Rachel N. Hall advertises general dry goods in a millinery store at Steep Falls. Levi Whitman advertises the valuable water power at the Steep Falls for sale. He was father of the late Francis H. Whitman of Harrison. Eben C. Shackley and Samuel Fawcett had formed a partnership to sell Havana and Trinidad molasses. Peter B. Frost had a store; old Java and Cuba coffee; young Hyson, Souchong and Oolong teas, etc. William E. Goodnow, who has quit printing and gone into business, advertises chigles, laths, etc., for sale and the Oxford Advertiser for advertising space. Howe & Cheesman ran a dry goods store and announce their co-partnership. This was Jere Howe and David N. Cushman.

A later sheet is the Norway Advertiser of May 22, 1850. This was George W. Miller's paper. It was purely Democratic. Mr. Miller was determined that the Constitution should be preserved. The most interesting item is the formation of the Oxford Agricultural Aid Society, with A. C. Denison, president; M. H. Dannel, secretary; Benj. H. Dannel, treasurer. The stock of the company was to be divided in sums of five dollars each.

"The object of the Society is to purchase a lot of land on the plains between this village and South Paris, of thirteen acres, and lease the same to the Oxford county Agricultural Society upon which the last named Society are to hold their annual fairs."

The store of James Crockett had been burglarized, one burglar fled and one was caught. He gave his name as Joseph H. Faulkner of Watford, R. I. He was morning, Sheriff Blake, whom I judge to have been the late Jonathan Blake, took him before Justice Dannel and he was bound over. Justice Dannel was the late Mark H. Dannel, long a Congressman from Minnesota. Don O. Seitz.

Richard E. Clement and family of Elizabeth, N. J., came Sunday night, and will spend the remainder of the summer at their cottage at Lake Umbagog.

Thoughts of My Old Home.

The Eagles of The Umbagog Lake. While living there, Mr. Sawyer caught two eagles. He put them in his shed chamber, they were black and as large as a turkey, though not a year old. They were brought down this way and sent off, and he realized a good sum of money for them. Another time a trap was set for a fox, with a long clog and chain attached to it; an eagle was so unfortunate as to step in it, and it was a large, heavy trap. The man who set it looked in vain for his trap. In the spring of the year when the ice was breaking up, he found his trap, clog and chain, with the remains of the river. The eagle must have risen quite high in the air with the trap, and when opposite this place had to give it up, fell and died, with the trap belonging with him. I never saw any such big legs for a bird to have! I should think they were fully as large around as my wrist. I have seen eagles often as they were flying and their heads always looked white. So much for the lofty bird of the north, not much like the beautiful singing bird, the Oriole, that built its pretty nest and hung it on the pear tree, in front of my door. No music was ever half so sweet as those happy little songsters, living there in my old pear tree, and so near me!

I used to often think the Lord sent them there to sing to me I felt so lonely sometimes.

Some other birds came too, to live beside of them, the Starlings. They were birds but not the same family, or lineage, but they seemed to have agreed not to meddle with each other's business, for they were not more than two miles apart. At one time there seemed to be four or five families, and they had a very neat pretty house, finished all up for them and mounted on a tall cedar pole, far above the top of the pear tree.

They could not seem to wait for one to sing its song alone, but all joined in and I should have thought they would have disturbed their quiet little neighbors, but I noticed the other family would all fly away, and keep flying still when the concert began for Orioles are the best singers. Still they seemed peaceable and happy, which surely is a blessed gift to have, and all do not have it, for they were driven away by wicked birds and never returned to their pretty little house, up on the tall cedar pole.

The lovely little humming birds used often to come and taste of my flowers. One flew into the house, as the window was open, and I caught it and held it in my hand for a minute, then let it fly away home.

Don't Ride in The Ruts.

"Don't ride in the roads by riding in ruts," should be the motto of every automobilist. Rut riding is one of the greatest causes of poor roads today and something should be done to avoid it. We cry for good roads but we do little in our part to help maintain them and keep them good after once we get them. Rut riding is the result of ignorance, or the reckless kind of thoughtlessness. A season of 100, the latter.

Newly constructed roads develop ruts much more quickly than old pieces of highway, and for this reason automobilists should use greater care to ride all over the road rather than to follow in the tracks of the ruts ahead of them. Even after deep ruts have developed, there is no excuse for riding in them, and in the majority of cases it is far easier to ride with one wheel in the center and wheel on the extreme edge of the road. The riding is far more comfortable and in addition it is very much safer.

Every city or town can show many examples of where rut riding has caused an excellent piece of road in a comparatively short time. It is a shame that on these same stretches of highway had traveled all over the road instead of following in the tracks of the man ahead, they would have been improved instead of ruined.

Condemns Modern Fishing.

That modern methods of fishing are responsible in great part for the scarcity of most kinds of fish is the belief of Jonathan Young of Phillipsburg, the oldest fisherman along the Maine coast. He is now in his 61st year.

Mr. Young is popularly known among the fishermen. He says that at the present rate it will be but a few years before fish will be as scarce and high as native beef. According to his view, propagating has not kept pace with the rest of the industry.

New England is undoubtedly doing the greatest summer resort business in her history. Figures compiled by the New England Lines would indicate that about 1,400,000 people spent their vacation within the confines of New England in the year 1912, and the reports so far show that this number will be greatly exceeded this year.

Nature's Own Wrapping Keeps Tobacco Best

No artificial package—tin, bag, or tin-foil and paper—can keep tobacco as well as the natural leaf wrapper that holds all the original flavor and moisture in the Sickle plug. When you whittle off a pipeful, you always get fresh tobacco, that burns slowly, and smokes cool and sweet.

Chopped-up, "package" tobacco loses much of its moisture before it goes into the package, and keeps getting drier all the time. And the drier it gets, the faster it burns in your pipe, and the more it bites your tongue. Only fresh tobacco gives real pipe-satisfaction—and only tobacco you cut off the Sickle plug as you use it, can be fresh.

Economical, too—no waste—no package to pay for—more tobacco. Get a Sickle plug from your dealer today.

Babies and Walking.

"While many mothers are proud of the child that can toddle around the room when ten months old," said a doctor, "they should do everything to keep it from walking at that age. It is too young, and the bones of the legs are back as weak. Bowlegs and in some cases spinal curvature always results to the lifelong regret of the mother."

"Many mothers take the child that is just beginning to walk and exhibit it to the neighbors and relatives. The occasion is one of rejoicing, but dire results are sure to follow if the child has been permitted to walk too soon."

"In only a short time the child's legs become so bowed, they remind one of a hoop and when walking, one foot seems to say to the other, 'If you will let me by this time I'll let you go, by next time.'"

KID YOUR CHILDREN OF WORMS.

You can change fretful, ill-tempered children into healthy, happy youngsters, by ridding them of worms. Tossing, rolling, grinding of teeth, crying out while asleep, accompanied with intense thirst, pains in the stomach and bowels, feverishness and bad breath are symptoms that indicate worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, expels the worms, regulates the bowels, restores your children to health and happiness. Mrs. J. A. Brisbin, of Elgin, Ill., says: "I have used Kickapoo Worm Killer for years, and entirely rid my children of worms. I would not be without it." Guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c. Training Our Sight.

Perhaps there are not very many of us that have not made the discovery that it is a great deal easier to be severe on other folk's sins and shortcomings than our own. It seems quite easy to get our magnifying glasses into focus when we are looking outward, but extremely difficult to do so when we are looking at ourselves. The chances are that other folks' failures and faults are not nearly as large as they look to us and it is more than likely also that those of our own that we see are considerably larger than we see them, and that we even have a few that we have hardly yet caught a sight of. Really, the time many of us spend searching around for other people's sins might be more profitably employed.
